

American Casualties Hit New High; Enemy Losses 2,675

(c) N. Y. Times News Service
SAIGON—American and enemy combat casualties in Vietnam reached new highs last week, a United States military spokesman said last night.
American losses during the week ending Saturday, March 18, numbered 211 killed, 1,874 wounded and seven missing. The Communists lost 2,675 killed. It is not possible for the U.S. to accurately calculate enemy wounded and missing, the spokesman said.
The previous high for American casualties was 1,617, reported for the week ending March 4.

Until yesterday, the 2,449 enemy dead reported for the week ending Feb. 25 was the record high.
Losses among the South Vietnamese armed forces were 357 dead, substantially higher than the average 250 to 300 usually reported, but not a record.
The spokesman said that more than 19,500 Communists have been killed this year.
The rise in casualties last week reflected an increase in the tempo of the war throughout Vietnam.
"Allied ground forces increased the level of ground, air and sea operations against the enemy in North and South Vietnam during the week. These operations continued the closely coordinated overall effort to exact upon the enemy an increasingly high toll as the price of his continuing aggression," the U.S. military command said.

An additional 4,000 Americans were added to the fighting force in Vietnam during the week, bringing the total strength to 427,000.
These troops engaged in 17 to 18 operations involving one or more battalions, the spokesman said.
The most notable clashes came in four areas: the jungles of War Zone C, northwest of Saigon; the coastal plain, northwest of Quinhon; the Central Highlands near the Cambodian border, and the rugged country at the edge of the Demilitarized Zone that separates North and South Vietnam.

American deaths were below the all-time high of 240 reported for a week during the fall of 1965, and below the 232 reported during the previous high week of casualties.
But American wounded last week numbered nearly 500 more than the 1,381 reported for the week ending March 4.
The spectacular increase in wounded appeared to reflect the

WARREN COUNTY

About 55 telephone operators returned to work after the Pennsylvania Telephone Union and Bell Telephone Co. signed a three-year contract that provides, among other things, wage increases totalling $2.6 million. Robert Dilks, manager of the local office, said he was "glad it's over." He worked in Meadville from 12 to 16 hours a day, manning the switchboard. Page One.

About half of the county membership in the National Farmers Organization showed up last night for a meeting of area dairy farmers. There were four NFO members among the 18 dairy-men present. An NFO spokesman said he thought there were about eight or ten members in Warren County. Page One.

VFW Post members in Warren have launched a drive to help the family of Theodore Allshouse, whose Starbrick home was destroyed in a fire Wednesday night. The family of four is particularly in need of clothes, the VFW said in announcing the drive. All of the family's possessions were lost in the blaze. Page One.

TAX SHARING

There is increasing pressure to grant state governments an increasing share of the federal tax dollar—without federal strings. The idea is building up as a major Republican issue in the 1968 elections and governors around the country are adding their voices to the demands. Gov. Raymond Shafer of Pennsylvania is among them. He threw the full weight of his administration into the fray yesterday, declaring he would ask the General Assembly to urge congress to call for a convention for a tax-sharing amendment. Page A11.

THE NATION

The National Farmers Organization has had little effect on consumers and retailers, the Associated Press has learned through a check around the country. Meanwhile, sporadic violence and vandalism continued to mark the milk withholding action. There was no indication that the NFO move would be any more effective than it has been. Page A11.

The Apollo space program is at a virtual standstill because of last month's fire which claimed the lives of three astronauts. No new crew has been named for the first Apollo mission and no astronauts are in training. Thus far, the investigation of last month's blaze has turned up no clearcut cause. Electrical failure in the high oxygen atmosphere is suspected. Page One.

The weather is, indeed, strange to say the least. The populated Northeast is caught in one of the season's biggest snowstorms and it's the third day of spring. In Colorado, where the plains are usually frozen solid at this time, flowers are blooming and the thermometers stand at 60 degrees. And in Texas, there's no rain at all. Page One.

THE WORLD

In Vietnam, American casualties soared to a new record. There were 211 men killed and 1,818 wounded last week. The Communists lost more than 2,000 in the same period. The figures reflected a stepup of the war throughout Vietnam. Page One.

In Korea, a journalist defected from the North during talks at Panmunjom. The Communists charged he was kidnapped and the United States denied it. The journalist was granted amnesty and reporters from Seoul were not allowed into Panmunjom for fear of reprisals. Page A3.

Two young pros, Tom Weiskopf and Homero Blancas, shot themselves into the first round lead of the Pensacola Open tournament with rounds of seven-under-par 65. Almost half of the field of 144 pros broke par on the layout. Defending champion Gay Brewer is one shot behind the leaders with a 66. Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper passed up the tournament. Contractor Takes Issue With Governor 'Disturbed' By Shafer Remarks

A spokesman for the general contracting company at work on the geriatrics unit of Warren State Hospital yesterday said the company was "disturbed" by criticism made Wednesday by Governor Raymond Shafer.
The governor had said many points in the construction by Gevyn Construction Co. of Mamaroneck, N.Y., were substandard.
The company spokesman, William M. Ivler, said the company has complied with specifications in the contract. He said the company officials will meet with Gov. Shafer and Robert L. Kimzig, executive director of the General State Authority, which financed the construction project.
Ivler made the remarks in a statement released after he had made his own inspection of the geriatrics unit construction project. The official Pennsylvania party had inspected the facility the day before.
"The Gevyn Construction Corporation is gratified to see that the newly elected governor, and the newly appointed executive director of the General State Authority, are taking a personal interest in the vast construction programs in Pennsylvania," the statement said.
"We are, however, disturbed over the statements made by both gentlemen while briefly in Warren yesterday. We feel sure that, after further investigation and study, they will find that both our workmanship and materials at the Warren State Hospital fully comply with all contract specifications.

"Pending such further investigation and study, we are reviewing the statements that were made here yesterday.
"We are this day requesting a prompt meeting with Governor Shafer, and the executive director, Mr. Kimzig, so that all such matters may be fully discussed and resolved.

Moon Shot Program Held Back

(c) N. Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK—Active training of astronaut crews for the nation's space program has been suspended until the full impact of the Apollo spacecraft fire last January can be assessed, officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said yesterday.
Interviews by telephone with officials and sources in Washington, Houston, Texas and Cape Kennedy, Fla., have disclosed that because all future flight scheduling is in doubt no crew assignments have been made for the first manned Apollo mission.
The Apollo flight, which had been originally scheduled for Feb. 21, is expected to take place no sooner than early 1968. It usually takes about eight months from the time a crew is designated until its flight.
Because of anticipated changes in the Apollo design to make the cockpit safer and more fire-resistant, it was learned, the astronauts are without any simulated vehicle in which to train.
As a result, most of the 47 astronauts are reported to be taking vacations, working on the fire investigation, doing classroom work and acting as advisers to the spacecraft manufacturer.
A final report on the fatal fire by a board of inquiry, which will serve as the basis for a full-scale congressional investigation, is expected to be released during the first week of April. There have been some indications that the two-month study has failed to pinpoint the exact cause of the accident, other than to establish that an electrical malfunction was the most likely source of trouble.

EVEN GEESSE ARE CONFUSED

Winter: A Weather Wanderland

By AUSTIN SCOTT
NEW YORK (AP) — In a fishing village on eastern Long Island, an elderly gentleman gazed in disbelief at a flock of geese winged north through one of the winter's worst snowstorms.
"Out here, we oldtimers know they never do that until winter's gone," he said. "I just couldn't help but feel sorry for those birds. They must have been real confused by it all."
The birds were in good company, however, for the past winter has perplexed just about everyone with odd and unpredictable weather patterns.
The populous Northeast caught one of the season's biggest snowstorms on the second day of spring.
At the same time the usually cold plains of western Colorado shed their normal heavy coat of snow for colorful blossoms, as peach, apricot and pear trees bloomed prematurely in spring-like temperatures that regularly topped 60 degrees.
From the Pacific Northwest, where offshore winds brought warm rains instead of snow, to the summery winter temperatures in the Los Angeles basin, and to warm and rainless Texas, most of the nation enjoyed an unusually mild winter.
The frigid air from Alaska that gave Canada an unusually

Bell Operators Return to Work

Bell Telephone's striking telephone operators went back to work yesterday after a three-year contract was signed in Philadelphia.
The contract, which ups pay $3.50 to $5.50 per week and includes a maintenance of dues clause and increased benefits, was signed at 3:38 a.m. after four days of negotiations with federal and state mediators.
The strike idled 7,800 Bell employees across Pennsylvania for a week. There were 55 striking operators in the Warren exchange.
The wage increases alone total more than $2.5 million annually, a joint announcement by the company and the telephone union. The maintenance of dues clause, considered a key item by the union, will insure continued membership in the union over the life of the contract.
In addition to the wages, benefits, and dues clause, the contract makes allowances for a wage reopener after 18 months.
In Warren, Robert Dilks, manager of the local business office, said he was "very happy it's over."
In making the statement, he said he felt he was expressing the feelings of both management and the striking operators.
Management personnel operated the switchboards of the company for 12 to 16 hours a day during the strike, providing general service and handling emergencies.
Dilks was dispatched to Meadville with others to assist in operations there. He said telephone service was kept near-normal. He commended the public for their cooperation during the strike period.
The contract will be effective Monday if ratified by the rank-and-file membership by March 31. Under terms of the contract, employees were called upon to return to work now and vote later. Normally, contracts are ratified by union members before they return to work.
Also idled by the strike were 11,000 repairmen, installers, and servicemen who belong to another union. They refused to cross the picket lines set up by the Pennsylvania Telephone Union (PTU).

Veterans Post Opens Drive For Allshouses

Warren's Veterans of Foreign Wars post has established a fund for the Theodore Allshouse family, who were burned out of their Starbrick home late Wednesday night.
Eugene Manfrey, quartermaster of the local post, said the family of four lost everything they owned in the fire and are in desperate need of all of the necessities. He said clothing was the main item needed most urgently.
Clothing needed is for a 4-year-old boy, who wears size 8; a boy, 13, who wears 32-33 trousers and medium shirts and underwear; the father, who wears a large shirt and 35-33 underwear. The mother's needs were not known. She is expecting a third child.
Contributions may be made to the Ted Allshouse Fund, care of the VFW Post at 343 Pennsylvania ave. W. The drive has been sanctioned by Robert Eadie, VFW post commander.

Two Hurt in Truck-Car Crash

Two Jamestown area men were slightly injured in a truck-car wreck at Akeley at 8 p.m. yesterday.

WCA Hospital told the TMO

Jamestown correspondent that Fred Austin of Frew Run rd., Frewsburg, sustained contusions and abrasions of both ankles, George M. Shuver of Shuver's Esso Service Center, 50 S. Main st., Jamestown, was reportedly not seriously injured.

State police said the driver of the car, Gloria Ann McMillen, 18, of 204 Pickering st., Sheffield, and her passenger Gilbert Anderson, 18, of Cottage ave., Sheffield were not injured.

Trooper Max J. Bizzak, who, with trooper William C. Dudnack, investigated, said the mishap occurred when the McMillen car, having signaled a right turn, turned right at the Akeley intersection of Route 62 and the Kiantone road while traveling north.

The truck tractor (not hauling a trailer) reportedly struck the rear of the car, turned over on the divider strip, came back on the road upright and struck the car again, pushing it down an embankment.

State police last night did not yet know whether the truck tractor was operated by Austin or Shuver.

Both the tractor and the car were demolished. Damages to the tractor were estimated at $10,000; to the car, $1,000.

results of heavy enemy artillery and mortar barrages against American troops along the demilitarized zone in the Central Highlands. In such attacks, the wounded almost invariably far outnumber those killed.

Striking in the jungles northwest of Saigon and near the DMZ, for example, the enemy fired 180 to 185 mortar rounds, wounding 54 Americans and killing none.

Elsewhere in South Vietnam Wednesday, only light and scattered fighting was reported.

Meanwhile, the South Korean command announced that it had put two divisions of perhaps 15,000 men each into the field on March 8 in its largest operation of the war. A spokesman said the operations objective is to secure 39 miles of national highway one, just below the center of South Vietnam, along the coast.

In their operation the South Koreans have killed 149 of the enemy, the spokesman said.

In North Vietnam, American pilots flew 55 multiplane missions in the southern portion of the country and around the city of Dienbienphu in the northwest.

Clearfield Chosen All-American City

CLEARFIELD, Pa. (AP) — The National Municipal League and Look Magazine named Clearfield Thursday an "All-American City" for 1966.

Clearfield, a county seat town with a population of about 10,000, was the smallest town and the only one in Pennsylvania so honored.

The award cited the town's economic, civic and cultural achievements, noting it attracted $2.5 million in industrial investments, noting the loss of 2,000 jobs due to the closing of several major industries in 1962.

Some States Dispute Road Safety Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Traffic Safety Agency has been asked to detour parts of its new highway safety standards and to bypass others.

But a check yesterday of comments received by the agency indicated an inconsistent mixture of responses from private groups and the few states which have responded officially to the 13 proposed standards published last month.

Comments received thus far range from "reasonable and constructive" to "impossible to put into effect by the deadline."

The Automotive Safety Foundation said the standards are "well within the minimum reach of state and local jurisdictions." But Alabama disagreed vehemently.

C. W. Russell, Alabama's director of public safety, said most states won't be able to put the standards into effect by the deadline. Some, he said, will "require extensive, extended and long-range propaganda to make them acceptable."

Illinois' Department of Public Works and Buildings said it would cost about $25 million to set up the suggested program with annual operating costs of $53 million excluding design and construction of highways. States such as New York and California have not yet commented officially on the standards.

The standards include inspection of motor vehicles at least once a year, re-examination of licensed drivers plus an eye test at least once every four years, and crash helmets for motorcyclists.

They are companions to the auto safety standards issued by the agency.

But unlike with the auto standards, $269 million in federal aid will be made available over three years to help the states set up a highway safety program based on the standards which the agency ultimately will issue.

The 13 draft standards published on Feb. 16 are for review and comment and there is no commitment to adopt them in their present form, the agency said.

Third Robbery Charge Filed Against Man

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The FBI filed a third bank robbery charge yesterday against a 22-year-old man who it said obtained a total of $3,677 in hold-ups at branches of two Western New York's largest banks.

Neil J. Welch, special agent in charge of the FBI's Buffalo office, named Harold J. Mims of Buffalo as the man who robbed two branches of the Marine Midland Trust Co. and one of the Manufacturers & Traders Trust Co.

Welch said Mims obtained $1,600 from a Marine branch Dec. 12, $1,090 from another Marine branch March 7 and $1,987 from a Manufacturers and Traders branch Wednesday. None of the money has been recovered.

Mims was arrested Wednesday, less than two hours after the M&T branch was robbed. He had been free in $10,000 bail to await trial in connection with the Dec. 12 robbery.

The Legacy of Mary Elizabeth

By Theresa Budinger
Housewife of St. Cloud, Florida

Sarah Bird was nearly 86 when I visited her in the Home for the Aged here in St. Cloud and listened as she reminisced about days gone by.

Here is one story she told me that has lived in my mind ever since...

Sarah Bird married the boy next door and the young couple moved with proper ceremony into a home given them by her parents. "Come joy or sorrow, we know that God is head of this home," her husband declared.

At first there was mostly sorrow. Their first baby, a boy, died before he was 2. Then little Mary Elizabeth was born and brought much joy until she developed heart trouble at the age of 5.

For the last few years of her life, Mary Elizabeth lay in her little brass bed in her own brightly furnished room at the head of the stairs.

The child spent much time reading. Once, when a picture of four orphaned little sisters appeared in the local paper, Mary Elizabeth asked a special favor of her father.

"Would you please go to the orphanage and buy them for me. I have $8. Please, Daddy. That one little girl has the same name as me—Mary Elizabeth."

But the father had to say no, explaining that with the cooking for the two hired men, the care of her blind grandmother and all the other work, it would be too much for her mother.

When she was 9, life slowly ebbed away. Somehow Mary Elizabeth knew what was happening. But she showed no fear.

Instead, she had one final request. Would her father please buy a baby girl at the orphanage because her mommy would be so lonesome when she left? The baby was to have blue eyes like the sky outside her window.

With heavy heart, her father gave her his solemn promise. Mary Elizabeth died on Maundy Thursday, and on Easter Sunday was laid to rest in the little cemetery nearby. Weeks later, her father at last told his wife of his promise.

"It would be too much to care for an infant," Mrs. Bird said, still grief-stricken. "I'm busy from dawn until far into the evening."

"But I gave Mary Elizabeth my word," her husband said. "We could hire someone to help you."

They visited the orphanage, made an application for adoption and went home to wait for their baby. Two months later the call came; the baby was ready to be taken home. It was a beautiful infant, just six weeks old, but it had brown eyes! The man remembered his promise that it be a blue-eyed baby. Was there one?

The orphanage director admitted there was another child, a blue-eyed girl, 18-months-old. "She is rather sickly, and screams whenever a man comes near her," she added.

The child was named Adelaide. The director would bring her down for Mrs. Bird to see, but perhaps her husband wouldn't mind stepping to the back of the room?

He did so. But Adelaide saw him right away. Her thin arms stretched out to him, and when he held her, she smiled. They took her home that very day.

After a month, Adelaide looked like a different child. Sun, shine and good country food put weight on the frail little body, and in six months she was healthy and happy.

On several occasions the orphanage director visited the farm to see how little Adelaide was getting along. During one of these calls, she asked Mrs. Bird if she would grant her a favor.

"There is a very unusual 9-year-old girl at the orphanage who has never been on a farm," she told Mrs. Bird. "Could you possibly take her for a weekend visit? Her name is Mary Elizabeth."

Remembering her own Mary Elizabeth, Mrs. Bird agreed to take the girl but only for the weekend. On Friday evening the little girl arrived, looking very forlorn, very lost and very subdued in her somber orphanage clothes.

Even though she was only staying two days, the couple decided to pretty her up. On Saturday they took her shopping and bought her a beautiful new outfit. The child stood in front of the mirror at the farmhouse, her hands lovingly caressing the lace, her eyes alive with joy.

Over the weekend, Mary Elizabeth insisted on helping with the dusting, making the beds and playing with little Adelaide. Then Monday morning came and the lady from the orphanage arrived to take her back to the home.

Mary Elizabeth stood at the door with the box of new clothing under her arm. She smiled at Mrs. Bird, thanked her, and asked wistfully, "I didn't make good here either, did I?"

"We told you it was only for a weekend visit," the lady from the orphanage explained.

Mary Elizabeth didn't answer. As she turned to go, Mrs. Bird could see the tears trickling down her face.

"It stabbed my heart," Sarah Bird said. "We couldn't let her go."

Within a few weeks the adoption papers were in order, and Mary Elizabeth joined the family. In fact, she moved right into the room at the head of the stairs that had always been kept just as Mrs. Bird's own little Mary Elizabeth had left it—twin dolls sitting up in the corner, her favorite toys neatly arranged on the shelves alongside her book of Bible stories and scrapbooks.

One rainy Saturday afternoon, the little girl asked if she could look at the scrapbooks. She promised to put them back just as she found them, for she knew that the room was very special to her new mother.

Suddenly the child ran down the stairs shouting: "Mother, Mother, your Mary Elizabeth has my picture in her scrapbook!"

Mrs. Bird tried to convince the youngster that it couldn't be. Her own little girl had passed away nearly four years before and had no way of knowing her. But the child insisted:

"Yes, she did. She wanted me. She picked me out!"

Mrs. Bird went to the foot of the stairs. The child brought down the old scrapbook and, there, pasted on one of the last pages, was the newspaper clipping with pictures of four little orphaned sisters. Circled in crayon was the oldest one—Mary Elizabeth.

"I'll never forget Sarah Bird's radiant face as she finished her story. 'I was convinced then that my own little girl had indeed sent me both the blue-eyed baby Adelaide and the second Mary Elizabeth. They were like gifts from heaven.'"

HOW MANY SERVICE STATIONS IN MOSCOW?

Russian Reporters Try to Help CIA

By FRED COLEMAN
MOSCOW (AP) — Have American spies in the Soviet Union goofed?

A couple of Russian newsmen decided the spies need help, and this has led to a clash of words between American cloak-and-dagger men and Russian tongue-in-cheek men.

The Central Intelligence Agency was up against something too big for them, the Russians said, so they volunteered to help out.

There are other things a spy has to snoop out besides information on nuclear installations, military secrets and all those things which give the profession its glamor. They must know, for example:

How many gas stations are in operation to serve Moscow's automobiles?

The CIA men set to work with characteristic scorn for all the risks involved in this supersecret project, and came up with a report March 1. The CIA found only eight gas stations in this capital of 6.5 million people.

This, in the estimation of the two Russian journalists, was a pretty poor display of espionage, and perhaps a reflection on the whole profession. They felt, the writers said, that it showed the CIA men were either lazy or stupid, but at any rate weren't buckling down to the job. So they volunteered to help out, and save the good name of the spy profession.

"We are working for the CIA," said an article in the weekly newspaper Literary Gazette. It was signed, "Amateur spies V. Ostrovsky and M. Trakhtman."

"A CIA agent has been given a complicated task: to find out the exact number of gas stations in Moscow," they explained.

The two decided to show the CIA how to go about such a delicate job. They reported they took a camera, got into an automobile and spent a day photographing Moscow gas stations, and came up with pictures of 99.

"By evening we were tired," they went on. "That was enough. Let the agents of the CIA get involved in this themselves. They get good money, but work badly."

After all this, the question still remains: How many gas stations are there in Moscow, anyway?

To people who know Moscow, the figure of 99 appeared to include many not open to the public: pumps for taxis, public vehicles, factory-owned vehicles, government-owned cars, and so forth.

port warming sales in balmy, spring-like weather. The major grumble was that the winter had been so warm they didn't sell any heaters or cold weather goods.

"I don't think the Easter parade has the importance it used to," said a J.C. Penney Co. spokesman in Richmond, Va.

People aren't buying as many Easter gifts as they used to but are buying more for themselves, a spokesman for J.W. Robinson Department Store in Los Angeles said.

What they are buying are pants dresses in Los Angeles and Albany, tent dresses in Atlanta and Oklahoma City, bolder jewelry in Detroit, double-breasted suits for men in Indianapolis and San Francisco, and shorter skirts everywhere. But there are mixed reports on the mod fashions.

They still are strong in Detroit. But in Kansas City, Ferrel reported: "The mod style is tapering off fast. 'People are coming back to less extreme (styles).'"

Bright colors—yellows, hot pinks, oranges and greens—plaids, checks, stripes and African prints are reported in demand.

The word from the White House is that Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson has chosen yellow for her Easter coat and dress—mimosa yellow.

Even the men are buying brighter colors and patterns, reported John Sloan, president of Cain-Sloan Co. in Nashville, Tenn.

"Men are spending a lot more money this year," said Thomas B. Wheeler Jr., president of Whitney's in Albany. "I think the men's industry is getting more fashion and style conscious. Buyers are color and fabric conscious."

This view was countered by a dissenting note from Oregon: "Women spend all the money and there's no reason to offer anything for the men," said Edward Finn, merchandising manager at Lipman and Wolfe Department Store.

One thing the women aren't spending much on is hats.

"Spring hats have been a declining business for years," a San Francisco merchant said.

"Millinery business has softened," said J.B. White, regional manager of Gambles Department Store in Kansas City. "Wigs and casual living have something to do with it. Women and teenagers are buying fewer hats."

In Helena, a store manager said wig sales were keeping the millinery department's head up. "Wigs selling for up to $119 are moving quite well," he said.

But in Miami, Fla., stores reported warm sales in balmy, spring-like weather. The major grumble was that the winter had been so warm they didn't sell any heaters or cold weather goods.

Steele-ing The Sports Scene

Booster or Fan?

Unlike the weather, of which everyone talks and does nothing, someone's doing something about sports—the local Sports Boosters. And that includes not only the Warren club, but also the groups in surrounding communities.

All are more or less engaged in aiding the athletic program, at least at the high school level. To list each one's accomplishments would take more space than we usually allot for the column, but you should be aware of them without our accounting.

The Warren Boosters will launch their 1967-68 membership campaign next Saturday, April 1, at the Kiwanis Sport and Outdoor Show and hope to set a record not only for single-event sales but on an annual basis.

Warren considers itself a pretty good sports town, but the Booster membership list is only a small percentage of the number of people who attend athletic contests or have a member of the family actively engaged in athletics or participate actively themselves.

There's a world of difference between a Sports Booster and a fan.

If the club could claim 100 per cent membership among just one group, say the fans who attend the home football games, the rolls would reach an all-time high. Or if all the bowlers joined the club, or all the golfers, the number would be substantial.

The old excuse of "Aw, I'm not interested in football" just doesn't hold water. The club is not devoted to the support of one sport. In fact, there are no limitations. The purpose of the organization is to promote athletics in any form in Warren and Warren County.

The current innovation of display stickers instead of membership cards for the wallet may prove to be a real eye-opener. Now we'll see who the Sports Boosters are, as distinguished from the "fans."

It's only one buck and there's no obligation to serve on any committees or even attend a meeting. Usually the small cost is returned many times over in the form of entertainment during the season, movies and clinics and critiques by the various coaches.

When a Booster approaches you about buying a membership next week, don't turn your head and walk the other way. You may even try seeking out the club's display and ask to join. It's painless.

STEELE SHAVINGS—Dick Fox, who has a lot of good friends here in Warren, has been named head basketball coach at Erie Cathedral Prep. He did an outstanding job with Corry's program and should enjoy a similar success with the Ramblers.

UPP's "Little" All-State basketball team is headed by Bob "Posie" Rhodes, the Mercer star. Brockway's Tom Green also made the first team and Wayne Swanson of Sheffield rated an Honorable Mention. Swanson was also on the AP list released Wednesday.

And getting back to wrestling, and to give gymnastics fans a boost, we offer the following release from Penn State:

UNIVERSITY PARK—Wrestling and gymnastics may be considered minor sports at some schools, but not at Penn State.

The biggest gymnastics crowd was 7500 for the Temple meet, followed by 6300 for Army and 6200 for Massachusetts. The smallest crowd was 6000 for Pitt.

Wrestling boasted the biggest crowd of the winter season with 7900 on hand for the Lehigh match. That's the largest crowd ever to see a dual meet in the East and ties for the largest crowd ever to see a dual meet in the country.

Southern Tier Champion Knights Honored With Special Banquet

By LARRY G. STEELE
Sports Editor

Parents and fans turned out last night to honor the coaches and wrestlers of Eisenhower Area High School, the 1966-67 Southern Tier Conference champions, at a special banquet.

Master of Ceremonies Mike Schultz, a former Knight mat coach, introduced a distinguished lineup of guests, including Eisenhower principal Fred Bauer, athletic director Norge Luvison, Dr. David Rice, representing the Warren County

All offered praise to the Eisenhower grapplers for their dedication, hard work and success achieved.

The invocation was given by A. A. Hagberg. The fete was held in the Eisenhower cafeteria.

Doug Clinger, head football coach at Slippery Rock State College, was the featured speaker. His topic was "The Value of Athletics." Clinger had coached Don Johns, Eisenhower's head mat mentor, in football at Grove City High School. Clinger informed the group that, when looking for potential material at Slippery Rock, the first thing the coaches ask is "Can he win?" The boys on the Eisenhower wrestling team, he said, showed they can.

"Athletics," he continued, "are important in molding men, but there are other things more important." He pointed out that there was a great feeling of satisfaction and security in being associated with champions and called them the "future leaders of the country." Clinger listed six qualities that are essential to athletes that aspire to be champions. Number one was "the Courage to compete." He noted that athletes must "meet the problem head-on" many times during a season. To be successful, he added, a person "must learn to compete," not only in sports, but in life also.

Clinger named Honesty as the second quality, especially honesty with oneself.

Attitude and Ambition were next on the list and Clinger pointed out that an athlete can become a champion only by striving to be better and always do his best.

The fourth point was Morale. Morale, he said, meant that everyone cooperated to get the job done.

Next came Pride, which Clinger pointed out "causes a winning performance." He stated that "no where in life can pride be instilled as it is in athletics."

The last quality was Sacrifice, especially Self-Sacrifice.

Reviewing the list, Clinger mentioned that the first letter in Courage, Honesty, Ambition, Morale, Pride and Sacrifice combined to spell "CHAMPS."

He concluded his remarks by reading a poem written by Paul Dietzel, noted college grid coach, that pointed up the qualities needed to be a star athlete.

Eisenhower assistant mat coach Troy Martin then introduced the members of the junior varsity team and coach Johns made awards to the varsity grapplers.

Members of the varsity team honored were Pete Block, Owen Williams, Gary Gage, Paul Cathcart, Gary Dalrymple, Paul Lindemuth, Dan Larson, Dave Burnette, Jim Martin, Harry Critzer, Tim Martin and Denny Haner. Lindemuth, Larson and Haner were the only seniors on the varsity.

Manager Tim Walker was also praised for his work.

Dr. Rice made the presentation of the Southern Tier Conference championship trophy to coach Johns and members of the team gave Johns and Martin personal gifts.

Track Clinic To Be Held in Erie Tomorrow

Harrison Dillard, former Olympic gold medal winner will highlight a list of five speakers who will present a track clinic at Gammon Auditorium on Saturday. He will speak on sprints and hurdles.

The clinic is sponsored by the City of Erie Recreation Department.

Along with Dillard, other speakers will be Mead Burnett, Robert Wall, James McDonough and Les Cramer.

Burnett is the vice president of the Ohio State coaches association and the coach at Ashland College and also of the Cleveland Striders Track Club. Among the outstanding athletes he has helped to develop are Willie Davenport, Martin McGrady and Stanley Albright.

Wall is a former coach at North East High School. Many of his teams won invitational meets and even a pair of state titles. His topic will be the weight events, such as shot put, discus and javelin.

McDonough is the coach at St. Joseph High School in Cleveland. His cross country teams have won the Gammon Invitational and Ohio State championship. His lecture will be on distance running.

Cramer is an instructor in the City Recreation weightlifting program. He talked and demonstrated as to how weightlifting is related to track.

Registration will be conducted from 9 to 10 a.m. The clinics will be from 10 to 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Admission will be $1 per adult and 50 cents for students.

Kalbfus Slates Skeet Shooting

Local shooters will have a chance to try their "eye" this Saturday afternoon as the new skeet shooting range at the Kalbfus Club opens for the season.

Word from the club is that there will be shooting at the new facility throughout the summer, with the action getting underway at 1:30 p.m. each Saturday.

Supreme Effort Needed to Stop Alcindor and UCLA

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — "UCLA will not lose in a normal game,"

Duke Coach Vic Bubas offered this observation yesterday on the eve of the NCAA basketball semifinals.

Bubas could qualify as an authority on UCLA and North Carolina, the teams expected to be in tomorrow night's showdown for the collegiate title. His Blue Devils lost twice to UCLA, three times to the Tar Heels.

Bubas agrees that UCLA, 28-0, should be the overwhelming choice and thinks there are only a couple of ways to stop the West Coast power. One, he explained, would be if 7 foot 1 Lew Alcindor got in early foul trouble. Another would be by ball control, particularly if the other team got ahead and decided to sit on the ball. North Carolina, 28-4, and Dayton, 24-5, clash at 7:30 p.m., EST, tonight in the first semifinal to settle the Eastern title. UCLA and Houston, 26-3, play two hours later with the Western championship at stake.

The survivors come back tomorrow night for a shot at the throne vacated by Texas Western.

Bubas said, "North Carolina is very successful in protecting a lead. It is not careless with the ball. It is rough on anybody when it gets that early lead."

"The Carolina players take smaller men inside and hook over them very effectively," he added.

John Whack Hyder, whose Georgia Tech club lost to UCLA, thinks the Californians would have reached the finals without Alcindor.

"I don't think they'd go through and win it without him, but they'd be here," commented Hyder. "The other players, plus (Jim) Nielsen, who fills in for Alcindor, are that good."

Hyder grinned. "Some of these coaches from Texas are telling me Houston is the team. Well, maybe Houston has somebody to handle Alcindor. I think that's the only way anybody is going to beat UCLA."

Houston has a big front line and it counts heavily on the rebounding of 6-3 Elvin Hayes, 6-8 Don Kruse and 6-7 Melvin Bell.

The Cougars, an independent like Dayton, lean strongly on Hayes who is averaging 28.7 points a game.

Coach Guy Lewis said earlier this week he had too much respect for the UCLA team to try to double- or triple-team Alcindor.

"We will play it straight, nothing new," he said.

North Carolina brings good overall size into the tournament with 6-3 Larry Miller and 6-3 Bob Lewis leading the scoring with 22.5 and 18.6 points averages, respectively.

Dayton kept coming back from the brink of elimination to reach the semifinals. The Flyers went into overtime to beat Western Kentucky 69-67 in its first NCAA start; edged Tennessee 53-52 and then were forced into overtime again to down Virginia Tech 71-66.

Caution with Press Denied by Colman

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Dick Colman, head of the American Football Coaches Association's Ethics Committee, denied published reports yesterday that a letter of caution on dealings with the press is being sent to AFCA members.

The Atlantic Constitution printed a story about such a letter Wednesday night and quoted Colman as saying it was the result of a controversial series written in Sports Illustrated last summer by Alabama Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant.

Colman was quoted as saying the letter will "stress the valuable and important aspects of football and urge that they (the coaches) be very careful in dealings with the press."

"There was a total misunderstanding about a letter," Colman, Princeton's head coach, told The Associated Press.

"And we certainly aren't trying to shut the press off. The business of statements to the press is simply dealt with in a section of the annual proceedings of AFCA's annual meeting in Houston, Tex., last January. There is no special letter."

"The proceedings are sent to all AFCA members and usually come out around May or June. This is standard procedure. We've made the same plea in past years. Much of the work of the ethics committee is constantly calling to the attention of the membership certain things to be very careful about."

"The committee examined a great many cases which come before us and we went over the Bryant articles. But our report was not as a result of those articles alone and doesn't even mention them."

As for the Bryant series, Colman said:

"We felt there were dangers in it, but that, as a whole, it was a personal statement that represented a great deal of commitment to football and an unquestioned love for the game. Bryant's basic attitude was considered good."

State Grapplers Do Well in Nationals

KENT, Ohio (AP) — The 37th NCAA wrestling tournament began Thursday with a 169-pound first round and no major surprises.

Returning two-time 123-pound champion Mike Caruso of Lehigh breezed to a 12-4 first round victory over Leslie Kempf of Kings Points.

Other 1966 titlists who won were Rich Sanders of Portland State at 115 pounds, Gene Davis of Oklahoma State at 137 and heavyweight Dave Porter of Michigan.

Six teams who came here with the best chances of winning the team title made good first-round showings. They were perennial favorites Oklahoma, Oklahoma State and Iowa State, Michigan State, Michigan and Eastern champion Lehigh. Oklahoma State is defending champion.

PORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Jim Pagliaroni, decorated Tuesday baseball player representative, is dissatisfied with the reluctance of club owners to discuss a boost in players' minimum salaries.

The Pittsburgh Pirate catcher said he and New York Yankee pitcher Steve Hamilton were supposed to meet with a group of general managers Monday in Fort Lauderdale.

"None of the general managers attended the meeting," said Pagliaroni. "Instead, the lawyers of the National and American Leagues were there, and Fred Fleig was there, too."

"We're dissatisfied with the position the owners are taking," said Pagliaroni.

Players are trying to get the present $7,000 annual minimum boosted to $12,000.

Marvin Miller, counsel for the Major League Baseball Players Association, told Pagliaroni and Hamilton to reveal the player representatives' displeasure with the approach of the owners.

Burnett is the vice president of the Ohio State coaches association and the coach at Ashland College and also of the Cleveland Striders Track Club. Among the outstanding athletes he has helped to develop are Willie Davenport, Martin McGrady and Stanley Albright.

Wall is a former coach at North East High School. Many of his teams won invitational meets and even a pair of state titles. His topic will be the weight events, such as shot put, discus and javelin.

McDonough is the coach at St. Joseph High School in Cleveland. His cross country teams have won the Gammon Invitational and Ohio State championship. His lecture will be on distance running.

Cramer is an instructor in the City Recreation weightlifting program. He talked and demonstrated as to how weightlifting is related to track.

Registration will be conducted from 9 to 10 a.m. The clinics will be from 10 to 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Admission will be $1 per adult and 50 cents for students.

Local shooters will have a chance to try their "eye" this Saturday afternoon as the new skeet shooting range at the Kalbfus Club opens for the season.

Word from the club is that there will be shooting at the new facility throughout the summer, with the action getting underway at 1:30 p.m. each Saturday.

The range is "open" to all shooters, with reloads and new shells available on the grounds.

Also copping triumphs were Lehigh's Joe Caprio and Rich Lorenzo of Penn State at 177; Bob Funk of Penn State and Ron Riles of Lehigh at 191 pounds and Eastern Champion Mike Reid of Penn State in the unlimited division.

In a head-to-head match, Lehigh's Jon Rushatz, runner-up to the National Champion last year, decisively beat Blacksmith of Lock Haven, 6-3. Blacksmith, a junior, was an NAIA winner last season but was dethroned this year.

Former Pennsylvania high school grapplers emerging from the first round included Rick Stuyvesant of Morehead State, a former Greenville PLAA Champion and Indiana's Tim McCall, a State Champ while at Erie Strong Vincent.

The tourney continues today, with the consolation matches slated tomorrow afternoon and the finals tomorrow night.

Shafer Strengthens Position on Taxes

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer threw the full weight of his administration yesterday behind a move aimed at securing federal tax dollars for use by the states.

Shafer said a resolution would be introduced in the General Assembly soon urging Congress to call a constitutional convention to draft a tax-sharing amendment.

The resolution, to be sent to the House, would avoid spelling out specific details of how such a revenue sharing plan would operate.

However, Shafer long has been an advocate of a system whereby the federal government would turn back to the states revenue with which the states could finance their own programs.

The governor said Rep. Alvin C. Bush, R-Lycoming, and Rep. Lee A. Donaldson, R-Allegheny, would be the chief sponsors of the resolution.

Bush, House Republican caucus secretary, and Donaldson, majority leader, said Democrats would be invited to join in co-sponsoring the resolution.

"We purposely do not describe a particular method for sharing the money," Bush added, "because many constitutional experts believe that it is a fatal error for such resolutions to dictate specifics to a proposed convention."

Shafer said he would send copies of the Pennsylvania resolution to governors of the other 49 states, urging them to support its passage in their own legislatures.

The U.S. Constitution says Congress shall call a constitutional convention if petitioned by the legislatures of two-thirds of the states. That means that 34 states would have to adopt resolutions similar to Pennsylvania's before the convention could be called.

The governor said Republican legislative leaders would contact their counterparts in other states, urging action on the Pennsylvania resolution.

NO FEDERAL STRINGS

Tax Share Idea Grows

By EDMOND LEBRETON
WASHINGTON (AP) — As every taxpayer knows, especially at this season, three different hands reach into his pockets at various times — those seeking revenues for his local, state and national governments.

Now, suppose there were a sort of teaming up, by which the federal government would turn over to the states part of its tax collections.

What would this mean to the taxpayer? Many questions are being asked in Washington about the possibility of tax sharing. Put forward originally without particular partisan color or as an idea worth studying, it has been adopted by Republicans in Congress as a major issue.

The federal government already practices a form of tax sharing. The figure for grants-in-aid in President Johnson's budget for the year starting July 1 is $16.7 billion.

But these payments are conditioned on the states or local units doing specified things, engaging in designated programs and following the rules for these — in many cases raising matching funds.

The distinguishing thing about the new tax sharing proposals is this: They call for a portion of the federal revenues to be given the states with no strings tied, or at least with a minimum of conditions.

The plan now has no official backing in the Johnson administration.

But Republicans increasingly have rallied to the idea, with emphasis on cutting back the grants-in-aid and therefore diminishing the activity and influence over local affairs of the federal government.

Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin, chairman of the House Republican Conference and author of a series of bills calling for tax sharing without delay, said the present federal attitude is that "you can't depend on local people to do a needed job."

"I disagree," Laird said, "they lack the resources to tackle them properly because the federal government has dried them up."

But the man who would have most to do initially with consideration of any legislation of the kind has declared himself unconvinced. Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the Ways and Means Committee, said: "I have always felt that more discipline could be exercised over the spending by a governmental unit if that unit had the responsibility for collecting the revenues."

It has been suggested, Mills continued, that tax sharing "might well cause state and local units to become more and more dependent upon the federal government."

And Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, the Democratic whip, raised the question whether a tax sharing program would not be under pressure constantly to expand as "candidates for Congress in every district run on a platform of 'I'll get more federal money for us.'"

NFO Milk Strike Failing To Cut Into Dairy Supply

CHICAGO (AP) — The failure of the National Farmers Organization withholding campaign to cut deeply into the supply of milk brought forth a wide range of explanations yesterday.

Dairy spokesmen said that normally 60 to 75 per cent of grade A milk is bottled, and the rest is used to make ice cream, cottage cheese, butter and powdered milk.

When the inflow dwindles they can readjust the handling, they added, putting more of the available milk in cartons and less into the by-products.

Norm Nelson, manager of the Sioux Valley Cooperative Milk Producers in South Dakota, said the NFO "just hasn't withheld enough to affect the supply."

A spokesman for the Northeast Federation of Dairy Cooperatives in New York State said the 16 million quarts of milk — which the NFO says it has dumped — would be only one day's production in the New York milkshed.

An Associated Press survey evoked other comments on the NFO holdback — now in the eighth day.

"This is the flush season for milk," said Ernest Malinskog, procurement manager for Cass-Clay Dairy in North Dakota.

"While one group is dumping, another is prospering," said Don Hirsch of Pittsburgh, Pa., district manager for Kroger Stores.

"I think the thing has run its course pretty well," said Charles Durlap, executive secretary of Colorado Dairy Products, Inc.

But NFO President Oren Lee Staley said there has been no shortage thus far because buying has been unusually light during the week. He predicted it will be unusually heavy during the Easter weekend.

"I don't see where they're going to get the supply to meet the needs," he said.

The NFO wants to win agreements with dairies to raise the price to farmers by two cents a quart. Now it generally is eight to 10 cents.

Staley said he has had several calls from dairies seeking negotiations. Talks were held with some late last Wednesday night, he added, but nothing definite has developed thus far.

The NFO said it knows of at least 10 million pounds of milk that was dumped in public.

The boycott has prompted calls for action by government officials.

Atty. Gen. Bronson La Follette proposed that Gov. Warren P. Knowles of Wisconsin bring farmers and dairy owners to the conference table.

Knowles replied that the answer "lies not within the State of Wisconsin, but at the federal level." He proposed that La Follette get in touch with Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

Freeman, at a news conference in Ithaca, N.Y., termed the nation's agriculture a productive marvel that "could be wrecked by the continued underprosperity of the farmer." "Perhaps," he said, "consumers should be prepared to pay a little more."

Trustees of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation called upon Freeman and the secretary of the Treasury to "take immediate steps to drastically limit dairy imports," such as cheese and other processed products.

This has an indirect bearing on the milk situation because milk is the basic factor in the whole trade.

Gov. Buford Ellington offered a $5,000 reward for information in each instance of violation of the milk boycott in central Tennessee. Ten such incidents have been reported.

A dairy truck was hijacked and wrecked near Flemington, N.J.

Farms Prices Signal Political Unrest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats and Republicans see milk dumps and violence as signaling an unrest among farmers that forebodes a crop of trouble for the administration in 1968.

The drive by the National Farmers Organization in 25 states to push up milk prices is regarded by many farmers and their leaders and representatives in Congress as headline demonstration of deep dissatisfaction over declining farm prices and rising costs.

"Sure it means trouble for Johnson in 1968," said Chairman W. R. Poage of the House Agriculture Committee, a Democrat from President Johnson's home state of Texas.

"Any Democrat who runs in is trouble in the farm areas in 1968 with the farmers feeling the way they do," he added. "But I don't know that the Republicans can do much talking."

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman — the man in the middle between disgruntled farmers and administration anti-inflation efforts — insists the situation will improve and that farmers won't turn their back on Democrats.

But at an Ithaca, N.Y., news conference yesterday he deplored low farm prices and cautioned that the "production marvel" of American farming "could be wrecked by the continued underprosperity of the farmer."

Freeman, like Poage and many others, feels that "perhaps consumers should be prepared to pay a little more" — a solution almost sure to bring down the wrath of housewives like those who boycotted chain supermarkets prior to last November's elections.

With farm prices sliding for six straight months to 6.6 per cent below what they were a year ago, farmers contend they are being short-changed in a prospering economy to the benefit of vote-rich consumers.

The arithmetic adds up this way to farmer Carl Halbig of Bavaria, Kan.: "There are fewer farmers, more votes among consumers, so policies favor consumers."

There is no agreement on the depth or scope of the farm problem or the unrest. Some suspect the farmers are crying for the crying towel. Some feel it is another case of overproduction.

And some feel it is a crisis foreshadowing trouble for the administration, a congressional battle and a fierce field for dispute in the 1968 election campaign.

Farmers Against Controls

PITTSBURGH (AP) — An official of Country Belle Cooperative Farmers said yesterday the majority of Western Pennsylvania dairy farmers are against establishment of a federal milk market control order.

Comptroller Ronald Croft testified at a U.S. Department of Agriculture hearing that the Dairy Farmers Cooperative Sales Association (DCSA) was trying to bring marketing controls to the area "through the back door."

Croft said that on two separate occasions "DCSA has attempted to impose a federal order on Western Pennsylvania and failed because of lack of support."

"Now, by watering the votes with the help of out-of-state cooperatives," Croft said, "DCSA seeks to bring in the back door what it could not in the front door."

The DCSA is one of several cooperatives seeking a federal marketing order for Western Pennsylvania, parts of Ohio and West Virginia.

Croft said the out-of-town cooperatives he mentioned were in the Cleveland and Toledo, Ohio, area and that they have little connection with Pittsburgh.

The hearing was recessed until Tuesday when it will open in Erie, and return to Pittsburgh Wednesday.

Meeting On Timber Resources

Arrangements have been completed for a Timber Resource Symposium, sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service of the Pennsylvania State University, at Bradford April 14.

The symposium will be held at the Pennhills Club, five miles south and east of Bradford on Route 770. A noon luncheon will be served by the club.

The four topics to be discussed will be of vital concern to forest industrialists, timber owners, officials of local government, county planners, foresters, forest managers and persons interested in the development and management of the region's resources.

Youth Held In Shooting Sent to WSH

COUDERSPORT — Potter County judge Walter P. Wells Tuesday ordered a Shinglehouse area teenager committed to Warren State Hospital for observation after he pleaded guilty to a charge of involuntary manslaughter.

The charge against Wayne Parker Reed, 18, stems from the fatal wounding early last month of Merlin Benjamin Dean Jr., 13, of RD, Shinglehouse. Reed's jury trial Monday was cut off when the defendant's attorney, George B. Angell, of Endeavor, told the court his client was prepared to change his plea from not guilty to guilty.

The fatal shooting occurred Feb. 6 at the Dean home in rural Shinglehouse. Coudersport state police, who investigated, said the boy's parents returned home about 7:30 p.m. and found their son in a pool of blood.

Young Dean told his parents, police said, that two strangers had broken into the house and shot him but officers and Deputy Coroner John Chamberlin could find no evidence of forceable entry.

Reed was later arrested by state police on a charge of carelessly and negligently pointing and discharging a .22 caliber single shot rifle and had been set free under $500 bail posted by his father.

State police said Reed claimed Dean had taken the rifle from a rack when they heard a noise at the rear of the house and the gun went off after Dean handed it to him.

Former Russell Man Appointed To Bank Board

A former Russell and Warren resident has been named in appointment to the board of the Staten Island branch of the First National City Bank of New York City.

Warren S. Park, of Staten Island, is the son of Mrs. Mary Park and the late Fred Park of Russell. Following his graduation from Russell High School, class of 1939, he began work with the J.C. Penney Company in Warren on a part time basis under H. B. Pettit.

He is now serving as manager of the Penney company store in Port Richmond. He is a director of the Staten Island Chamber of Commerce, treasurer and past president of the Forest Ave. Shoppers' Town Merchants Association and a member of the Community Planning Board.

Daughter Here

Mrs. Lulu Mumford, 67, of Howard Siding, near Emporium, died Friday at Andrew Kaul Memorial Hospital in St. Marys, where she had been a patient for five days. Her husband and three daughters, including Miss Margorie Mumford of Warren, survive.

According to Frame, the study is currently under review since March 13 by the District office of the State Highway department.

The Senator said it is expected the plan will be submitted to the Central office next week with public hearings to follow in due course of time.

Frame's announcement followed close on the heels of a visit to Warren Wednesday by Governor Raymond P. Shafer during which he noted that thought must be given to the Warren area and the tremendous influx of tourists because of the Kinzua Dam and Allegheny Reservoir.

The governor stated it was imperative there be no slowing up of the Pennsylvania highway system and emphasized the need not only to complete projects already started but plan for the future.

The legislators listed the projects expected to be added to the highway commission's continuing six-year inventory as a Route 8 by-pass of Oil City and a divided and relocated Route 8 from Oil City to Cherrytree, with a total estimated cost of $6,676,000; a Route 8 by-pass of Franklin which would also be a four-lane divided highway at a cost of about $1,280,000.

The third project discussed was an interchange between the Keystone Shortway and Route 308 at Clintonville, at a cost of slightly over $300,000. This project is already under design in the Franklin district office of the Highway Dept.

Favor Closing Penn's Schools Election Days

The Pennsylvania State Association of County Commissioners are on record as favoring two House Bills now being considered by the legislature.

Warren County Commissioner Blain M. Mead, a member of the association's legislature committee, said the organization favors House Bill 307, which provides that all schools be closed on all election days.

The bill gained favor, Mead said, since it would permit use of school districts as polling places without any traffic danger to small children.

Also favored in House Bill 405 requiring all coroners to be physicians.

Town Crier

... By Les Rickey

The letter between President Johnson and Ho Chi Minh of North Vietnam poses an interesting question: Just how did he begin it?

Does one say, "Dear President Ho," or is the more formal "My Dear President Ho" the proper form? Is Ho Chi Minh liable to take the word "Dear" as a sign of weakness?

And one can't be too friendly with the chief executive of a country with which you're at war, so you can't say, "Hello, Ho," or even, "Hi, Ho."

It's an interesting thought and one which has not been disclosed in the recent exchange of news copy. The contents of the letter, the method in which the letter was delivered, and the reaction to the letter—all these were announced. But not the salutation.

I checked into this a little bit and no one is talking. I think there's a reason and it's very simple—somebody goofed.

My research, albeit limited, shows that the letter began with the words:

"Greetings from the President of the United States."

That's the same words, you'll recall, that lead off the letters from draft boards around the country. And that explains the whole thing. The peace offer was rejected because Ho Chi Minh thought he was being hailed forth for induction.

That's one way to do it. If you can't make peace with them, draft them. It works with college students anyhow.

Three States Will Discuss Drinking Age

Pennsylvania's new Attorney General, William Sennett, will meet with attorney generals from New Jersey and New York states early next week to discuss a uniform drinking age for the three states.

Erie County Coroner Merle Wood initiated the action recently when he wrote to Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York State and Governor Raymond Shafer, expressing concern over teenage traffic fatalities in Erie County.

Wood said Erie County has had 11 fatal car-crashes in the past 12 months—all clearly related to drinking by minors. He asked the governors to find a solution to the problem.

The coroner conferred with Sennett in Harrisburg Monday to report statistics that will be incorporated into a proposed uniform drinking age law to be presented by Governor Shafer at the next Governor's conference scheduled sometime during April.

The problem has become one of vital importance and an early solution must be worked out, Wood said.

Route 8 By-Passes Assured

OIL CITY — State Senator Richard C. Frame and Rep. Alvin Kahle on Wednesday predicted that the about-to-be released additional two-year program of the State Highway Commission would include three major projects in Venango County, with a total cost of over $9 million.

The legislators listed the projects expected to be added to the highway commission's continuing six-year inventory as a Route 8 by-pass of Oil City and a divided and relocated Route 8 from Oil City to Cherrytree, with a total estimated cost of $6,676,000; a Route 8 by-pass of Franklin which would also be a four-lane divided highway at a cost of about $1,280,000.

THE BALLET and its interesting history, how through the centuries was the topic of guest speaker Helen McDaid of the Helen McDaid Dance Studio, located at 110 Pennsylvania ave. E. Her program was the art of recent meeting of the Pre-School Child Study Group at the home of Mrs. Leo and Berenheid, 11 Crestmont drive. The ballet teacher, who in private life is Mrs. Khlar McDaid, demonstrated the five basic ballet positions, and, for those not inclined to ballet, but nevertheless wanting to reduce here and there, she also demonstrated some very effective slimming exercises. Another topic of interest, but discussed during the business meeting, was the dinner-dance which is to be held on Saturday, April 29th at the Hotel Jamestown for members and their husbands. Delicious refreshments brought the evening to a close, served by Mrs. Jerry O'Donnell, Mrs. Ralph Pasquino and Mrs. William Steinhilber.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You are going to call this shot, Ann Landers, and if you are with "them" and not me, I will crawl back into the cowbush and never offer another opinion.

Last weekend our daughter brought her roommate home from college. Our daughter always does her laundry when she comes home and her roommate brought laundry, too, which was fine with me. I happened to see the roommate ironing a man's shirt and I asked whose it was. She replied, "My boy friend's. And darn it, I have seven shirts this week!"

At the risk of sounding square I told her I had never heard of a girl doing her boy friend's laundry. Both she and my daughter said it was the "in" thing and that any girl at college who wasn't doing a fellow's laundry was considered a cipher.

Am I crazy when I say this is entirely too chummy?—FORTY SEVEN AND AGING FAST

DEAR AGING: If a boy is smart enough to find a girl who is dumb enough to do his laundry, why knock it? I'll bet a giant-size box of detergent that the landladies end up with a ring around the washtub, and somebody else gets the ring on the finger.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was fascinated by the letter from "Life Is a Dumb Heap." The woman said anyone who has to write to Ann Landers for help has a screw loose, yet she had joined the throng without even realizing it. I address my remarks to her:

I am the "tramp" (?) who is seeing your husband. I would like to make one point clear, however, he is NOT keeping me. I make $200 a week. And I am not a dumb blonde. I have a master's degree from Columbia University and I'm a brunet. I did not go after your husband. It was quite the reverse. He finds something in me that he did not find in you—principally a keen appreciation for life and the good things it has to offer. Until he met me, he thought life was a dumb heap, too.

And now, because I'm a good sport, I'll give you some advice: If you want your husband back, lose some weight, stop complaining, and make your house heaven to come home to. Spoil him. Fuss over him. He deserves it. In fact, he's the finest man in the world, and don't forget it, he is YOUR husband. I wish he were mine.—BRONXVILLE

DEAR BRONXVILLE: Here's your letter, and if that wife is wise she'll take your advice. I couldn't have done better myself.

Irvinedale PTA To Contribute To Council Scholarship Fund

At the March meeting of the Irvinedale PTA on Tuesday evening, the membership voted to again contribute to the Warren Education Committee and Warren Council PTA Scholarship program; $25 was budgeted for this purpose.

Mrs. Archie Brown presided and devotions were led by Bernard Wingert. Mrs. Brown announced that the April program will feature the High School Dance Band, and that the final meeting in May will be in the form of a "green dinner with parents and six" graders attending. The affair will be in honor of the sixth graders graduation from Irvinedale School.

The Boy Scout Troop Committee chairman, M. Tahyee Sando, asked everyone to support the Scouts of Irvinedale when they compete in the Scoutarama to be held in the Armory on Hickory street on April 8, Saturday, from 2 to 8 p.m. The Irvinedale Troop will take part in a lashing and lean-to demonstration, plus other skills. Tickets are now on sale for the event, and Mr. Sando urged everyone to attend.

The Cub Scout set-up at Irvinedale is being reviewed, and Gene Shine will be the Assistant Cub Master, with John Daley the chairman of committees. It was emphasized however, that many parents are needed to assist, and they were asked to contact Mr. Shine, or Mr. Daley.

Mrs. Brown named the following to the PTA nominating committee: Mrs. Archie Hunter, Mrs. Robert Knapp, Mrs. James Johnson and Mrs. John Naegeli. They will present a prepared slate of new officers at the next meeting.

Mrs. Donald Homes' room won the award for the largest attendance of parents at the Tuesday evening meeting.

A program was presented by Edmond Waskiewicz, who lived in Alaska while with the Forest Service. He showed a film on the wildlife and scenery of this beautiful and modern country, spoke of his work in developing roads and forests for recreation purposes. Mr. Waskiewicz stated that Alaska takes up one-third the size of the United States and that the cities are very modern with few and progressive schools. He stated that the standard of living is considerably higher in Alaska and the country is provided with the best concerts, lecturers, T.V. Stations and many forms of entertainment.

Mr. Waskiewicz, who has moved to Warren, recently is with the Forest Service in this area.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I had a little boy out of wedlock seven years ago. I knew it would be difficult to keep him but I couldn't bear to give him up, so I am doing my best.

I have told my family and friends that I was married secretly to an Army officer who was killed overseas. Only my mother knows the truth.

The boy keeps asking for a picture of his Daddy and I wonder if I should show him a picture of my cousin who was killed in the Korean War. It would keep him happy and solve the problem. Your answer will be my decision.—A.G.S.

DEAR A.G.S.: Don't add another lie to the one you now have going. It will complicate matters (lies always do), and you'll have to make up six more lies to cover it. Tell the boy you have no picture.

Do you feel ill at ease...out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Adventists Sending 'Dollar Missionaries' To Missions

Members of Warren Seventh-day Adventist Church, 614 4th Avenue, will send "dollar missionaries" to three foreign missions posts in the Far East as a result of special services at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, March 25.

The dollar missionaries will be the result of a "Thirteenth Sabbath offering" which members will give during Sabbath School as well as other activities of the services of the local church.

Seventh-day Adventist faith says George Lauger, director of the church's Sabbath School department.

The funds will go to build new medical buildings at the Seoul day Adventist Hospital in Korea; to erect an evangelistic center in the Crown Colony of Hong Kong; and to expand Mountain View College in the Philippines.

During the past three months, explained Mr. Lauger, members of the church have been receiving special reports on these projects as well as other activities of the services of the local church.

A New You by Emily Wilkens Legs Ahoy!

There's an amusing rumor in the fashion world that some designers and hairdressers delight in making fashion difficult for the average woman. A recent example is the fact that some consider short skirts are nothing but a prank.

In any case, I think shorter skirts are a logical fashion development and meant to be fun, but the shortest are certainly unladylike—even dangerous. Without question, the mimet of minis is suitable for very few women—all under six years of age!

TRAFFIC STOPPERS?

Even such professional authorities as cab drivers are against the shortest skirts because they've viewed famous beauties wearing "unfashion" skirts and revealing a not too pretty expanse of knee. I suspect that they would prefer to see longer skirts and keep their illusions.

Nevertheless, you simply can't go around wearing the 1947 "New Look" in 1967. Regardless of all the pros and cons, you must build a bit with fashion and recognize that legs are in for a whirl for the next season or so.

I believe that any part of the anatomy not up to par is better off not revealed. If you plan to keep your knees covered with modestly short skirts, you'll have enthusiastic support from many, many women—and quite a few men, too.

Fortunately you can still approximate the fashionable leggy look without going to extremes. Here's how:

One way of playing the fashion game is with hosiery. The stores are breaking out in a rash of color and texture all designed for stocking splurging. A word of caution, however! Wearing the wrong hose can look as discordant as wearing an unflattering skirt length.

The two most important new hosiery trends for 1967 are the sheer look and the opaque. Sheer hose should reflect a hint of your costume color—a very pretty understated way to be well coordinated.

Opaque hosiery is available in deeper tones that seem "dyed-to-match" your outfit—a particularly good fashion tip for a small-scaled person who wants to create the illusion of height.

For daytime wear, crocheted-like variations are a boon for girls with slim legs. Most suitable for everyone, however, are the good-looking textured stockings with a small flat pattern that blends together.

Pant-hose are a most appropriate innovation and the best bet for shorter skirts. They eliminate that bugaboo of garter bumps forever and are good for pants suits, too. Proportioned hose and the newest stretch stockings, which really cling to the leg, are a blessing especially now when baggy, saggy stockings could be ruinous.

Even though hosiery is dramatic and exciting, it should always complete the total picture and reflect good taste. You may adore a pair of purple fishnets, but they won't do a thing that's right for your lime suit. Remember, too, that that hand-crocheted look which enhances the legs of an ultra-slim model may be too much for you.

The NEW YOU who discovers the best hosiery choice for her legs will win the fashion game—by a length.

JUST FOR YOU:

Your hosiery dries quickly, looks neater in your dresser drawer if, after washing, you damp dry in a towel, keep hose wrapped for a few minutes, and then hang to dry in an out-of-sight place.

DEAR HELOISE

Does anyone know how to wash smoke-damaged clothes? I've experimented on some clothing I damaged but with no success.

It's the black oily film I would like to remove in cotton etc.

R O

DEAR CAROLYN:

The day your hint came in, I had planned to make a lime gelatin salad for supper, so I tried your jim-dandy idea.

I lined an empty ice cube tray with plastic wrap then put my salad in it. I did find that I had to lift the edges of the plastic wrap slightly all around the tray to let out the air under the wrap.

When the gelatin had set, I inverted it on a plate and removed the tray and plastic wrap. I had a perfectly shaped salad which I could slice into nice, even portions. I decorated the salads real fancy and my family thought they were dining on the Queen Mary.

Before I tried your hint, the servings were rather ragged looking and part of the gelatin stayed in the bottom and around the edges of the tray. And as you said, I lost part of the salad when it was melted by the hot water.

Also, after cutting and removing the amount of salad we would use that night, I just put the wrap BACK over the remainder. The salad didn't dry out a bit in the refrigerator.

Thanks for such a neat trick!

DEAR HELOISE

While reading an article about oily hair, my mother and I came up with this idea.

When your hair rollers need washing wrap them up in a bandana and tie them securely. Then put them in the washing machine to wash them.

They come sparkling clean.

WGH Pathologist Addresses Fourth Grade At Jefferson

The Fourth Grade Class of Jefferson School had the interesting experience of hearing Dr. Donald J. Furman, pathologist at Warren General Hospital, speak of the subject of "Bacteria."

The guest speaker noted for his young audience the different kinds, uses, and growths of bacteria. Experiments were performed in class, with some pupils studying bacteria under a microscope, and others, bacteria placed in an incubator for the observance of its growth.

The class demonstrated its keen interest with a barrage of questions put to Dr. Furman at the conclusion of the class.

The Norsemen are said to have introduced the bagpipe to Scotland.

Easter Shoes

It's later than you think, and for the young lady who hasn't decided on the shoes to complete her Easter suit or outfit, Valo's Shoe Store may have the answer. The shoes above have a cold buckle which sets off Miss America's little heeled creation of two-toned grained leather. And there's still more fashion news in the scooped out front and open back.

Student Pickets Defended

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)— If the students are restless and threaten to picket, a hep college administrator won't try to stifle their protests—he'll do everything but help them paint the signs, a veteran educator says.

Above all, says Dr. E. G. Williamson, a college administrator, don't be overbearing.

Williamson is dean of students and psychology professor at the University of Minnesota and Wednesday will be sworn in as president of the American Personnel and Guidance Association, meeting this week in Dallas.

"This has been quite an exciting decade," said Williamson, who has been at the university 26 years. "Students are much more sophisticated than they used to be and would rather have frank, open discussion of basic issues, of the things that really matter."

Thus he encourages dissatisfied students to speak out even in groups.

"We encourage them to organize demonstrations. Sometimes we even help them. It's a new service," he said in an interview.

He said students unhappy over a proposed tuition hike at the university "wanted to stage a sit-in in the president's office, so we helped them plan it."

"It was a big success," Williamson said.

"As a result of the sit-in and the manner in which it was done, the board of regents voted a $100,000 increase in scholarships to offset the effects of the tuition hike," he said.

"Of course you can't just give in whimsically to every complaint or suggestion," the educator said. "It would just whet the appetite of some. But on the other hand, you mustn't be authoritarian in your judgments because you just give the protesters a secondary issue."

In doing research for my term paper, I ran across this quotation from a pamphlet that was published by the Spelling Reform Association in an attempt to simplify spelling in the English language:

"If an S, an I, an O, and a U

"With an X at the end spell Su,

"And an E and Y and E spell I,

"Pray, what is a speller to do?

"Then if also an S and an I and a G

"And H E D spell side,

"There's not much left for a speller to do

"But go and commit slouxyesighed."

I agree. It's no wonder sum peepul cant spel vary wel.

Eisenhower High Banquet Honors Wrestling Champs

By Cindy Glotz and Mitzl Brezee

Thursday evening a banquet was held to honor the 1966-67 Eisenhower High wrestlers. Eisenhower placed first this year to bring home the Southern Tier Wrestling Championship.

The banquet was organized by Mr. Donald Johns, head coach, Mr. Troy Martin, assistant coach, and Mrs. Gwen Burgett. Gail Lawson and Romona Southwell are the student chairmen. The price of the meal was $2.10 per plate.

Master of Ceremonies was Mr. Michael Schultz. Mr. Schultz started the wrestling sport here at Eisenhower, three years ago. This year he retired the position of head coach to Mr. Johns.

First on the program was an invocation given by Mr. A. A. Hagberg, retired YMCA secretary from Jamestown, New York. Then the dinner was enjoyed by the wrestlers and all the guests.

Everyone enjoyed a meal prepared by Mr. Donald Marsh. It consisted of frosted juice, swiss steak, mashed potatoes and gravy, a vegetable, salad, rolls, coffee and pie. There was a cake made by Mrs. Russell Southwell. Eight girls from E.H.S. served the dinner to the guests.

Speakers of the evening were: Dr. David Rice of the Warren County Athletic Council; Mr. Norge Lavison, Director of Transportation and Construction; and Mr. Doug Clinger, football coach at Slippery Rock College. The topic of the speeches was "The Value of Athletics."

Junior Varsity wrestlers were recognized by assistant coach, Troy Martin. Mr. Martin talked about the importance of J.V. wrestling.

Mr. Johns then presented the Varsity wrestlers with awards. The team presented Mr. Johns, Mr. Martin and Mrs. Burgett each with a gift.

Dr. David Rice presented the Eisenhower team with the trophy. The trophy stands approximately three feet high and has been on display in our showcase for the past week.

Mr. Schultz closed the program with a few comments about the team and their achievements.

Everyone on the organizing committee would like to thank everyone who supported "our" team by attending the banquet and all the wrestling matches throughout the season.

Tim Martin (180); and Denny Haner (Unlimited).

RECORD IS 5,529

Pancake Happening

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP)

— Sixteen-year-old Don Donaldson would like to have been of more help to the rest of his high school teammates — but he quit after eating only 15 pancakes.

"I wasn't very hungry," he explained. "A couple of hours ago, I ate two hamburgers, some French fries and a Coke."

Besides, Donaldson added, he had to get home early for dinner.

The boy was one of 218 pupils from Royal Oak Kimball High School who converged on a Birmingham pancake house Tuesday to try their stomachs at a new teen-age craze — pancake gobbling.

They polished off 3,481 saucer-sized pancakes to claim the record.

But while Kimball team was chomping away, a 253-boy team from Royal Oak Dondero High School swarmed into another restaurant nearby and downed 5,529 pancakes to post its own claim to the championship.

The pancake-eating Olympics began a week ago when a group of high school boys from nearby Redford Township staged a similar eat-in at another restaurant and consumed 1,356 pancakes.

They immediately challenged the world.

Kimball High School was the first to take up the challenge, but at least three others announced their intention to enter the competition.

The ground rules are simple: Each school gets together as many boys as it can to eat as many pancakes as they can at one sitting. Each group provides a sergeant at arms to keep order, and the honor system is used in the counting.

The average number consumed by the Kimball group was 16, but some stalwarts managed to down as many as 30 pancakes. The Dondero team averaged 21.02 per person.

When they finished, each of the boys paid 49 cents and waddled out into the night.

Should 4Fs Work at Remedies?

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said this week that youths who fail to meet educational or physical standards for the draft ought to be compelled to remedy their defects in the interest of fairness to those who are drafted.

Wirtz also said that he saw "no justification" in terms of manpower requirements for occupational deferments once the nation begins drafting from the 19-year-old age group. He admitted under questioning that the same criteria held true for college deferments.

President Johnson announced in his March 6 draft message to Congress that he intended, before Jan. 1, 1969, to reverse the current draft process and begin taking by lot the youngest, the 19-year-olds, first. Under the present system the oldest men are taken first in the order of their birth dates.

The Secretary of Labor made the remarks in testimony before the Senate subcommittee on employment, manpower and poverty which, under the temporary chairmanship of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, is conducting draft hearings.

"It has to be recognized," Mr. Wirtz said, "that any military service system which sends a boy who has developed himself to a battlefield, and sends another boy who has wasted his life back to gang warfare in a slum or ghetto, is wrong on two counts: It wastes an opportunity to take someone who needs it by the shoulder and straighten him up — if this is possible — and it is unfair."

"I don't know the answer to the young man," Mr. Wirtz said, "who says I don't see why I should go into military service when you let the bums out."

Mr. Wirtz said that some form of compulsion was necessary because statistics showed that youths who fail mental or educational tests for the draft are not responding to offers of help to remedy their shortcomings.

Pearce, general manager of a chain of pancake houses in the Detroit area. His restaurants offer "all the pancakes you can eat for 49 cents, on selected days."

Pearce said: "We aren't making a cent. I don't know how it all got started, but it's good clean fun."

"I think we'll offer a trophy to the grand champion — if we're still in business."

Encounter Gives Hope to Addicts

By JUDY KLAMESRUD

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
NEW YORK — Cynthia, a cherub-faced brunette in a shocking pink sweater, smiled wanly as she talked about the straight A's she used to get as a grade school pupil. Now 17 years old and a junior in a respected east side high school her grades have slipped to C's and D's.

She blames her mediocre marks on "pills, pot and psychedelics."

"For a while, I was going to pot (marijuana) parties almost every night and falling asleep in class the next day," she said.

"There are 2,000 girls in my school," she continued, "and at least 400 are involved with drugs."

Cynthia was speaking to 10 young persons sitting in a circle in a small apartment in Greenwich Village. They were sympathetic because they, too, had tried drugs and were trying to quit. Some had already succeeded.

Their organization, called Encounter, was started last August to help teenagers stop using drugs. Its founders were three young former drug users who had been a part of what they call "the MacDougal Street drug scene" for about four years.

They are Brendan Sexton, 21, his wife, Lynn, 19, and Jan Stacy, 19. Brendan, now a junior in psychology at New York University, grew up in a middle class home in Forest Hills, Queens. Lynn and Jan were reared in the Village.

Encounter's major focus, Brendan said, is on pre-addicts — those young people who have experimented with various drugs but are not yet addicted.

Basically, the pre-addict program is run like this: Young persons who want to give up drugs are invited to Encounter's headquarters for an interview. Then they are asked to attend what is called a "group," which begins at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday and lasts about two hours.

After they have attended five consecutive "groups" and have stopped using drugs, they are allowed to attend advanced meetings, called "Encounters," on Monday and Thursday evenings.

The technique employed at all the meetings is a form of group therapy. The only persons present are young drug users and former users pouring out their problems to one another.

Their exchanges are candid, sometimes brutal.

"You feel worthless, don't you Cynthia? Is that why you take drugs?"

"I don't know, maybe."

"Your parents don't like you, do they Cynthia?"

"No, they're always yelling at me."

"Well, if I were a father, I wouldn't want you for my kid. Would you like a kid who was high on goofballs all the time?"

The purpose of these sessions, Brendan said, is not to cure the young persons of the problems that cause them to take drugs ("We know we're not qualified to do that") but to help them learn how to cope with these problems.

Brendan, Lynn and Jan conceived the idea for Encounter about a year ago, while they were taking part in group therapy sessions led by Dr. Daniel Clasriel, a Manhattan psychiatrist who is interested in drug addicts.

They set up shot last August in the Greenwich Village Peace Center with a $3,000 grant from the Stern Family Fund. The money ran out in December, and all expenses since then—including the rent on their soon-to-be occupied permanent headquarters at 150 Spring Street—have been paid with community contributions.

Brendan said he thought the main reason teenagers started taking drugs was their desire to appear "cool, hip and aware."

"A lot of these kids respond to us because we know them from our old hangouts," Brendan said, "and they can't put us down for being square. We hope that by showing them how phony and childish the drug scene is—and that we are just as hip as they are without using drugs—that they will want to come to a group."

Jan is more straightforward when he makes his pitch.

"I just tell them that almost every friend I had when I was on drugs is either dead or in jail."

IT'S UNFAIR

Authority Reviews Draft Law

(c) N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — Burke Marshall, chairman of the presidential commission on the draft, said yesterday that he believed virtually all student deferments were basically unfair and should be abolished.

Marshall, an executive of International Business Machines Corporation who formerly headed the civil rights division in the Justice Department, also said in congressional testimony that anyone with sufficient intelligence and means could presently "beat the draft."

Marshall said that eliminating deferments for graduate school students would only remove part of the inequity and would still not eliminate the inherent unfairness in allowing college students the choice of postponing service for four years through a deferment while youths who lack the economics or educational means to go to college are not given this choice.

This inequity becomes particularly unfair in a time of war, he said.

"Right now," Marshall said, "being drafted involves the possibility of fighting in a war. But a student right now is given the choice of avoiding that."

"That is the greatest problem," he said, "giving some people that choice and not giving all people that choice is an element of unfairness."

Marshall said he also believed that student deferments were creating resentment among lower economic groups.

"It seems to me," he said, "that you can't explain to someone who doesn't have the means or the skill or the intelligence that in a time of war you're taking him and allowing someone else to stay on a campus."

He also attacked student deferments as an "arbitrary classification" since the concept does not take into account the equally important, from a personal point of view, career training problems of the working class youth.

Saturday's Hi Time Show Popular With Area Teens

By BECKI HAGBERG

Every Saturday morning from 10:30 to 11:45, the four members of the Hi Time staff of WNAE Radio conduct a program designed especially for teenagers of the Warren area.

The staffers are Leslie Stein, Craig Scallise, Rick Dies, and Denny DeLuca.

Their work includes preparing the show, arranging records in order, writing announcements and publicizing events, broadcasting the news, and "working the board."

"Working the board" is a radio term for putting on commercials, making special announcements, and operating the format of the program. This involves using recorders and taped messages, as well as operating the electronic equipment within the radio station.

The program is specifically aimed at teenagers, but certainly not restricted to them. The foursome extends a standing invitation to members of the adult world to tune them in and hear about the young adult activities.

Leslie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stein of 214 Buchanan st. She has been on the program for seven months. She first became interested in the Hi Time show while doing commercials for her father, who owns and operates Stein's Ladies Shop.

While a freshman at Beaty, she wrote and presented announcements over the public address system. She is a junior.

Rick is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Dies of 37 Berryst, North Warren. He was a guest on Hi Times four months ago and continued on the regular staff. He is a junior class member.

Denny is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur DeLuca of 108 Monroe st. He joined the Hi Time staff during the summer between his sophomore and junior year. He is now a senior. He enjoys radio work and is preparing to take a test in Buffalo for his third class (unrestricted) radio broadcast license.

Craig is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Scallise of 213 Oneida ave. He has been a staff member since his sophomore year and he now is a senior. He became interested in broadcasting while listening to recordings made by Denny and Doug Boyd, who were then on the Hi Time staff. Craig, like DeLuca, is preparing to take his FCC test for a third class (unrestricted) license. He and Denny both will graduate this June.

The officials of NABCO (Northern Allegheny Broadcasting Company) have not placed any restrictions on the Hi Time staff, other than the standard restrictions imposed on any radio station. The program is a program done by the teenage staff for teenagers and they run their own show.

It usually takes the staff a half-hour to an hour-and-a-half to prepare for the show. They often work during the week, recording tapes for announcements and commercials and selecting records for the Saturday show.

The program is popular with the teenage set in the Warren area. "Everyone listens to it," is the keyword when the question is asked of any high school student. What's more, they like it.

REITERATION

We all are guilty of repeating ourselves sometimes and often it is necessary to keep saying the same things over and over for emphasis, or just to get the wheels moving. No one in Warren county who has read the local newspapers for the past decade can be unaware of the need for river area development, tourist accommodations and facilities, and recreational promotion.

Depending upon the circumstances, hearing the subject discussed repeatedly can be amusing, irritating, or gratifying. Such was my experience at a recent meeting when a visitor, a newspaper man who has been in the area for about a year, spoke on these problems.

A resident of a neighboring county, he was concerned about development along the river, the many visitors who would be coming to the area because of the Kinzua dam, and the type of accommodations and facilities that should be provided.

It was gratifying that he should be concerned about these matters and that the problems with which we have been dealing in Warren county for years are now crossing the county line, as does the meandering Allegheny River.

And his handling of the subjects was both amusing and irritating. Amusing, because his audience was well-acquainted with the subjects and has been actively engaged in them for years. Irritating, because he obviously had not done his homework. It was like a pre-med student briefing an eminent surgeon in techniques of the operating room.

I do not mean to be harsh or unkind to this fellow. He was very sincere and his only fault was in being uninformed, misinformed, and a late-comer. But there is a moral here.

Anyone who assumes the responsibility of making statements in public, written or oral, should also fulfill the obligation of being armed with the facts. There is always the chance that your listeners or readers will know more about what you are trying to discuss than you do. This can be doubly embarrassing if you happen to be mistaken on some of your points or actually in error.

Opinion is something else. This is what the individual concludes and believes after considering a subject. He can agree or disagree for he has a right to his own opinion, right or wrong.

He can even seek to persuade others to see things as he sees them. The dictionary defines fact as truth or reality; what has really happened or is the case; something known to have happened; a truth known by actual experience or observation.

We all can profit by being careful how we handle "facts." And "opinions."

Clarion Made Good Showing Debate Finals

Last weekend Clarion seniors John Mann of Irwin and Jean Elliott of Knox debated in the district VII eliminations for the national championship, to be held this year in Chicago in April. District VII includes Pennsylvania, Virginia, Delaware, West Virginia, New Jersey, Maryland, and the District of Columbia, and only the top five teams from this region go on to the nationals.

Clarion finished two ballots short of the tie needed this year to win an invitation to nationals, with an eight-eight record overall. The five teams winning invitations were: Georgetown, Virginia, St. Joseph's, King's, and Pitt. Washington and Lee and George Washington University were alternates, also having ten ballots, but losing out when the tie was broken.

Clarion's only clear loss in the tournament was to Georgetown, the first place team in the tournament. Clarion had six split decisions, with King's, Richmond (winner of the Navy tournament), Washington and Lee (winner of the Richmond tournament), Maryland, Rutgers, and Seton Hall, and a unanimous decision over Wheeling.

Chamber of Commerce Officers are Re-elected

Incumbent officers were re-elected for another one-year term at Tuesday night's meeting of the Tidioute Area Chamber of Commerce. Homer Miller will continue as president; Donald Klinebaker, vice president; Mrs. John Christy, secretary; and William Allen, treasurer.

Serving on the nominating committee were James King, Garwood Lodge and Mrs. Earl Yeager.

The subject of Fourth of July fireworks was introduced and discussed at length. Last year the holiday pyrotechnics were bypassed because of lack of a suitable site. The Chamber sponsored the display for several years at the Tidioute Bucktails shooting range on Bucktown Hill but this area is no longer available because, being on national forest lands, it is being developed in conjunction with the Tidioute overlook.

Hoping that a solution might be found to the site problem, G. K. Lodge was appointed to investigate and report at the April meeting. The matter of financing will require some study, also.

The Tidioute Lions Club in a letter to the Chamber stated it would be glad to assume the responsibility for the annual hometown parade and a chicken barbecue as part of the festivities planned for the 1967 Pennsylvania State Fishing Tournament in Tidioute on the weekend of Oct. 14-15. The Lions Club handled these two projects last fall with great success.

It was decided that the garbage collection center for campers and vacationers would be opened sometime after April 1. Because of donations from campers who make use of the facility, the Chamber spends only a token amount to maintain it.

A member of the Forest Press staff in Tionesta was a visitor and discussed river area development, the black fly problem, and the Forest Press's annual Vacation Guide for which he hopes to solicit advertising in the Tidioute area.

EASTER EGG TREE

When they talk about "hen fruit", they're not kidding at the James Hoskinson home, 315 Jackson Avenue, where an Easter Egg Tree is attracting much attention. More than 30 dozen of colored eggs were used in trimming the 12-foot tree, which it can be seen, was a real "fruit" producer. (Photo by Dunham)
